Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 27 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cloudy and turning wet, especially across Derbyshire.

This Evening and Tonight:
A damp, misty evening, and rain will spread across all areas by midnight. The rain will be heavy and persistent, especially across western hills. Turning breezy and rather less cold too by Thursday morning. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Thursday:
Heavy morning rain, turning lighter during Thursday. The rain mostly clearing by evening with some brightness possible before dusk. Feeling milder than of late. More rain overnight, some heavy. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Showers or rain on Friday. Turning colder, with frost overnight. Saturday breezy and probably dry, bright with some sunshine. Sunday similar with light winds. Rain and snow perhaps arriving later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.